ACCIDENT AT BALL PARK

FOUR PEOPLE KILLED AT PHILADELPHIA.

Twelve Fatally Injured and 150 Hurt—Three Thousand People in a Panic—Horrible Scene.

Philadelphia, Aug. 8.—Four persons are dead, twelve fatally injured and 150 others were hurt, some seriously, in an accident at the Philadelphia National league baseball park this evening when a wall which overhung the left field bleachers fell to more than 200 spectators. Ten thousand people attended the games. During the fourth inning of the second game a quarrel between two men in the street attracted a crowd from the bleachers to the overhanging sidewalk. The crowd was so great 200 feet of the walk gave way, carrying down all who were on it. The crash of the falling wall caused panic in the bleachers and instantly 3,000 rushed down the stand into the playing field. It was a black wave of humanity. Men and boys climbed over one another in their effort to escape from the ground. Fall players and others tried to stop the rush, but were swept aside and several persons were badly hurt in the crush.

Identified dead: EDWARD GRAHAM, ALFRED RODGERS, EDWARD WILLIAMSON. Probably fatally injured: THOMAS CAIN, fractured skull, internal injuries. DOUGLASS M'CAULEY, fractured skull, internal injuries. JOHN MURPHY, 8 years, fractured skull. PETER BARRETT, fractured skull. JOSEPH M'CONAGHY, fractured skull. JOSEPH M'GARIGLE, both ankles broken, internal injuries. W. SNYDER, both legs broken, spinal injuries. JOSEPH LARKIN, 10 years, internal injuries. A. D. ROBINSON, 56 years, concussion of brain. LEWIS M'GRATH, fractured skull, arm and leg. JOHN RADCLIFFE, fractured skull. NICHOLAS MOSER, internal injuries.

A SCENE OF HORROR.

Outside the grounds the scene was one of horror. For an entire block men and boys were lying writhing in agony. Some were buried under wreckage, others were lying in gutters and dozens were stretched out on the car tracks. Some lay unconscious, others were rolling over suffering great pain and others attempted to get up and walk only to fall again. Ten thousand persons within the grounds left the place and crowded about the injured, of whom there were more than a hundred. Indescribable confusion reigned for a time, but cooler heads succeeded in quieting the excited people and the dead and injured were taken from the wreck, many to hospitals, some to car barns, others to neighboring residences. Physicians were summoned from all over the city and attended the injured as rapidly as possible.

CAUSE OF ACCIDENT.

Examination of the walk after the accident showed many of the wooden supports, which extended three feet beyond the walk, to be rotten and broken off flush with the wall.

LANGLEY AIRSHIP TAKES A DIVE.

Widewater, Va., Aug. 8.—A partly successful experiment with the fifteen-foot Langley airship was made this morning from a houseboat in the Potomac river off this point. The aerodrome started well in a straight line south with a velocity of seventy feet per second and flew for a distance variously estimated at from 400 to 600 yards. Some deflection of the wings soon after launching caused it to take a downward course, which it followed rapidly, and was impelled into the water under full power of its engine and disappeared from view. The machine was recovered considerably damaged.

An old man of 65, wearing a shiny frock coat and a shabby silk hat, addressed the question to a group of students on the University of Chicago campus yesterday afternoon. "I am an inventor," he continued. "My name is Arthur Taylor and I have here with me a model of my great appliance for wagons, automobiles and street cars. Mr. Rockefeller agreed with me ten years ago to adopt my plan and use my wagons for transporting his oil. He was to pay me $500 a day for the right, but I have never received a cent."

He was assured that Mr. Rockefeller was not at the university and he went away.

EVERYTHING NOW READY

FOR CORONATION CERE-MONY TO DAY

Will be Most Imposing Function—Description of Interior of St. Peter's Where New Pope Will be Crowned.

Rome, Aug. 8.—By special permission a representative of the Associated Press was allowed to enter St. Peter's to night to observe preparations for the coronation to-morrow. In the central aisle a wide space has been fenced off for passages of the cortege. Chapels have been richly decorated with red damask fringed with gold. The papal throne rises majestically at the farther end of the great building, being a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver. On the right a space has been reserved for the diplomatic body, knights of Malta and special representatives and envoys; on the left another space is reserved for the Roman aristocracy. Close at hand stands a bronze statue of St. Peter dressed in full pontifical robes and looking strange to profane eyes, the great toe worn away by much kissing of the faithful being in evidence.

The high altar is adorned with gilded candelabra and designs by Michael Angelo, Colonna and other famous artists, in which many candles will twinkle on Sunday, while several thousand electric lights will illuminate the whole church. The portico of St. Peter's has been closed by immense curtains to prevent any one looking in as the pope passes, which would seem to confirm the statement Pope Pius X. will not bless the people from an outside balcony, as was half expected.

The outcry regarding distribution of tickets for the coronation has assumed vast proportions. Many distinguished Catholics, especially foreigners, have arrived in Rome for the purpose of being present at the ceremonies and they have been unable to obtain tickets, while speculators are selling them on the streets. At the French embassy, accredited to the Vatican, great indignation prevails and a communication has been addressed to the press informing the French colony it will be impossible to provide tickets, as only thirty have been received at the embassy. The departure from Rome of Cardinals Langenieux and Lecot without waiting for the coronation is much commented upon, as the French cardinals had refused until the last moment to vote for Sarto.

The government has ordered 10,000 troops to occupy the plaza in front of St. Peter's at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. The new pope has been upsetting all customs at the Vatican. When courtiers thought to day to give him pleasure by saying he would have a tremendous reception at St. Peter's on Sunday the pope was displeased and absolutely forbade anything of the kind. Another innovation at the Vatican is the pope's refusal to permit everybody to be sent away when he appears. A gendarme had ordered away some maons who were working about the grounds because the pope was about to come forth. The pope himself witnessed this and had the gendarme severely reprimanded. The maons were recalled and the pope spoke to each of them, laying his hand on their heads and giving them his blessing to their immense delight. The pope also insists on continuing his habit of accompanying all persons who he has received to the door, no matter how humble. Every diplomatic measure has been adopted to have him abandon this custom, but without avail.

CAPTURED BY THE "ENEMY."

Bar Harbor, Me., Aug. 8.—The naval search problem which began last Wednesday noon when Rear Admiral Barker took up the plan of defending the Maine coast from a hostile fleet, which put to sea Monday under Rear Admiral Sands, ended early to day when the Olympia, flagship defending, discovered and intercepted the "white squadron" of the enemy headed at full speed for Winter harbor. The hostile vessels were running in close order formation and had not the fog lifted at a favorable moment it is thought the enemy would have eluded those on guard. As it turned out, before her consort could reach the scene in answer to her signals the Olympia had been forced to fly the white flag and consider herself captured or destroyed by the hostile commander.

When the Olympia discovered the "enemy" Rear Admiral Barker of the Kearsarge, twenty-five miles away, was notified by wireless telegraph. General quarters was sounded and in a remarkably short time the Kearsarge, Alabama and Illinois and a number of torpedo boats, destroyers and tugs were on the way to meet the hostile vessels. As soon as she was within range the battleships opened fire with secondary batteries and the white flag was run up on the Texas, Admiral Sands' flagship. After an interchanging of signals the invading and defending squadrons headed for Bar Harbor.

THE HUMBERT TRIAL BEGUN

NOTED SWINDLING CASE TAKEN UP IN PARIS.

Accused of Beating French Banks Out of $12,000,000—Mme. Humbert on the Stand—Story of the Crime.

Paris, Aug. 8.—A large crowd attended the opening trial of the notorious Humbert family, which began in Palais de Justice to day on charge of having perpetrated what experts call the "greatest swindle of the century." Many excursions came from distant points and the scene in the court room recalled the tense days of the Dreyfus and Zola trials.

Public curiosity centered in Therese Humbert, who has promised to produce at the trial the mysterious American millionaires, Crawford Bros., on whom she based her story of inheritance of $20,000,000, which she put forward as security for loans, she obtained amounting to about $10,000,000. Therese Humbert, her husband, Frederick, and her brother are charged with forgery and swindling.

Interrogation of Madame Humbert furnished the chief incident of the day, but failed to develop any surprises or bring out the whereabouts of the mysterious Crawford brothers, her statement consisting mainly of vague declarations of her honesty.

Frederick Humbert followed his wife on the witness stand. He made insinuations against Minister of Justice M. Valle and ex-Premier Waldeck Rousseau. When questioned as to the whereabouts of the Crawford millions, he replied he knew nothing about them. "But I know about them," exclaimed Madame Therese, rousing from her supposed sick condition. The hearing was then adjourned until Monday.

STORY OF THE CRIME.

On May 9, 1902, the interest of all Paris was centered on an empty safe at No. 63 Avenue de la Grand Armee. It was supposed to contain 20,000,000 francs left by Henry Crawford, an American millionaire.

The sum was alleged to be held in trust by Mme. Therese Humbert, an American woman. On the strength of her title to the fictitious wealth she borrowed about $12,000,000 from bankers and others in France and Belgium. Mme. Humbert and the other members of her family were arrested when the safe was found to be empty. All that was found in the Humbert apartments was $2,000 in jewels and $115 in cash.

It was promised that the disclosures in the case would rival the Panama canal scandal. Law suits immediately sprang up all over France. Creditors demanded the punishment of agents on whose representation they had lent money to the Humberts and courts in Lyons, Marseilles, Toulouse, Havre, Brussels and other cities were busy with the cases.

Two Laws With Reference to Them Passed by Last Legislature.

The question of local improvements and how to make them has been complicated for nearly all the cities of this state by the passage by the last legislature of two acts on the subject.

The first bill related to public improvements in towns between twenty and fifty thousand inhabitants. It suspended section four of the local improvements act and provided that when any city, town or village shall by ordinance provide for a local improvement the manner of paying for it, whether by special assessment or general taxation, or both, shall be stated. But in cities having a population less than 50,000 and more than 20,000 no ordinance shall be passed for a local improvement to be paid by special assessment or by special taxation of contiguous property unless the owners of one-half the abutting property shall petition for it. This bill simply changed the limits of population in the local improvements act. It was signed by the governor May 11, but on May 15 he signed another bill on the same subject and amending the same section four of the local improvement law. Under the rule of the supreme court the latter bill became the law July 1. It provides that in cities, towns or villages between 25,000 and 50,000 people, 100 tax payers may petition to have submitted to a vote of the whole people the question whether or not local improvement can be made without petition of the owners of one-half the abutting property. If a majority of the voters of a city favor abolishing the present petition method of securing a public improvement the city council could then go ahead and order pavements, sewers or walks in any part of the city without a petition from the same from the abutting property owners. A large number of places in the state come within the two limits of population fixed by this law.

The difference between the Borelli comet and the long-sought Democratic issue is that the comet may be seen with a powerful glass.

The Philadelphia Record says Tillman's speeches are not taken seriously even in his own state. Then South Carolina should get over the habit of electing a senator flippantly.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who is considerably past 80, is a heroic as well as a grand old woman. She proposes to visit Newport and interest herself in something besides small talk.

Our sales to Germany last year footed up $193,555,500, against $191,780,000 in the fiscal year 1901. The phrase "Made in the United States" is growing familiar in nearly all parts of the world.

An electrical device invented by a janitor in Chicago resulted in the capture of a thief. If this ingenious person were a ward politician he might get a job in the St. Louis police department.

"Folk's grand juries have never yet injured honest men," says a Missouri paper. The statement is correct, but just think of the commotion caused in circles that do not believe honesty is the best policy.

A queer strike is one in Jersey City in which workmen demand a reduction in wages in order that they may conform to the authorized scale. This seems to be a case in which arbitration might be agreed to without much delay.

A wireless weather service is proposed. It often happens now that the weather itself arrives before the telegraph can tick a warning. The widespread storm of last Wednesday afternoon was an example. It just dropped in suddenly by wireless.

It is said the new heir in the family of the ex-president will be known as Grover Jefferson Cleveland. Thirty years hence the name may be one to conjure with in the Democratic rally, provided any such political relic lingers superfluous on the scene.

Brooklyn claims a population of 1,291,507, an increase of 125,000 in three years. These figures show that but for consolidation, Brooklyn would have passed its neighbor on Manhattan island in number of inhabitants.

Mining for petroleum in Pennsylvania, which was begun forty-three years ago, maintains itself as a stable industry. Last month 781 new oil wells were completed in the state, with a product of 6,000 barrels a day. Not more than a fourth of the new wells sunk are failures.

Senator Tillman has had the misfortune to lose his wallet, well filled with railroad passes. "How can I help accepting them?" remarked the senator. "They stick 'em at me until I just have to take them." It is said that when it comes to sticking the man with the pitchfork finds himself defenseless.

In order to encourage the Cunard company to build two new steamships, intended to be the swiftest afloat, the British government loans the company $12,000,000 at 2 1/2 per cent interest and agrees to subsidize the new vessels at $375,000 per year each. Speaking of protective policies, how is that for a free trade country?

CHOICE MISCELLANY

A Postal Clerk's Post of Honor.

The wonderfully extensive delivery of railway postal agents in the service of Uncle Sam was recently exemplified by Frank J. Thrasher of Rochester, who sorts the mails between Boston and New York. Mr. Thrasher has been in the railway postal service for about a dozen years. A short time ago he took the "case examination," embracing all of the post offices in New York state and also in the New England district. In New York state there are 37,000 post offices and in the New England states about 5,000, making a total of about 42,000 places to which mail in those districts may be directed and which have to be handled by the railway mail clerks during the quick transit of trains between Boston and New York or Albany.

The "case examination" taken by Mr. Thrasher consisted in the sorting of a series of cards representing the whole number of 42,000 post offices embraced in the above named districts and properly distributing them. His task was accomplished without an error, and his distribution was at the rate of 3 1/2 cards per minute.

In performing this wonderful feat of memory, Mr. Thrasher has the distinction of having broken the record, and in recognition of his ability he has received a letter of commendation from General Superintendent James E. White of the railway mail service at Washington.—Boston Herald.

The City of Seville.

Seville is today as much a Moorish city as it was 300 years ago at the expulsion of the Saracens. The arrangement and plan of the dwellings are the same as on the Euphrates and Tigris, but they are more beautified and ennobled by art and by the wealth which these Moslems in Spain and Sicily had at their command. It is a remarkable fact that the Arabs, who in their native land have never risen above the lowest stage of civilization, but have always been a nomadic, pastoral people, became in Europe the bearers of knowledge and refinement. Poetry and history, mathematics, astronomy and architecture flourished with them when the Christian west had sunk into dark barbarism.

There is no more beautiful poetry than their lamentations for their lost paradise of Granada, and in their encounters with Christian chivalry they often displayed a romantic valor and generosity which served their enemies for a model.—Moltke.

Such Whiskers!

Think of a man with a beard more than eleven feet long! Men with long beards are seen in many side shows, but it is doubtful if there is on record a more remarkable growth of whiskers than that of Vol Tapley, who is a farmer residing east of Mexico, Mo. Some time ago, when he measured his beard, he had his picture taken and gave the photo to Congressman Champ Clark of his district. He keeps his whiskers rolled up in a great wad under his vest. Tapley combs his whiskers by unrolling them and placing the end in the hinge of a door. He then closes the door, draws the whiskers taut, and the rest is easy.

Were it not for the fact that Mr. Tapley is of a retiring disposition and has a fine farm he would be on exhibition, for he has been offered thousands of dollars to go before the public.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

River Steamers Without Ornament.

"On certain of our river steamers it has been decided to do away with the frills and fancy work on the smokestacks," said a gentleman from Mobile. "These ornaments rust off and fall to the deck, frequently causing serious accidents. Cases have been known where men lost their lives by ornamental fine tops collapsing, and it is predicted that eventually these picturesque but unnecessary adjuncts of the river packet will disappear."

"Personally I am sorry to see this innovation and the passing away of the familiar jagged ring about the top of the stack, which is the first part of the boat to loom up down the river as she rounds the bend. However, this is a small thing to sigh over, for it will not be many years before the boats themselves will be practically relics of the past."—Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald.

New York's Milk Supply.

A million and a half quarts! That is the amount of milk left daily at back doors, on dumbwaiters, in tenement halls, milk depots and corner groceries for the inhabitants of New York. Nothing the city eats or drinks is so generally used as milk; nothing else is so dangerous if carelessly handled. A few gallons of bad milk can do more harm than a regiment of doctors can repair and scatter disease and death enough to put a whole community in mourning. When one remembers that the campaign against poor milk during the last three years and the constructive efforts to get good milk become a reason not only for civic pride, but for individual thanksgiving.—Alice Katherine Fellows in Century.

The Coach Still in Favor.

There is something delightfully respectful and old-fashioned about driving in a coach. The gentle crawl of the team is positively delightful after a long season of whirling through the air in an automobile. We live and move and have our being in a hurry, and we shall look upon the Chinese who take up railways and telegraphs and live on tea and rice, who are greater than we are now, but who are not so much as we were, as the most successful inventors of the mechanical and electric horrors of the modern age.

NEW SHORT STORIES

The Chaffin's Ideal of Womanhood.

Perhaps the finest thing about the late Paul de Chaffin was his high ideal of womanhood and the obligations it imposed upon him. His convictions were chivalrous enough for the days of knight errantry, says a Paris letter.

He would stand bareheaded in the winter winds if conversing with a woman on the street, and he was constantly protesting against the breaking down of the old time standards of manners. His refined instincts and habitual deference kept him to the end very much of a beau in the best sense. There was nothing he enjoyed more than escorting a party of young girls to a matinee. "Tis just like being in a flower garden," he would explain.

His weakest trait was bound up with his strongest. He was morbidly sensitive on the subject of his age. The short road to his good will was to compliment him upon his youthful appearance. One could count upon receiving a bit of candy a moment later, slyly drawn from his waistcoat pocket. There is no doubt that he was born much earlier than 1835, the year he assigned; but, as Helen Everston Smith, who met him in 1893, when, in her opinion, he was nearly thirty, has well suggested, his misstatements arose from misapprehension and not intention.

With his whimsical chivalry and vanity it is astonishing he never married. But he used to quote the fellow who said, "I would not marry a woman unless I respected her, and I could not respect a woman who would marry me." Once he remarked that, so far as women were concerned, his heart was like the Paris India rubber omnibus, in which there was always room for one more.

Indiscriminate Charity.

The late Joseph Merrell of Baltimore was devoted to charitable work in that section, being a governor or executive officer in many institutions devoted to that class of work. He was, however, an ardent supporter of organized charity and an opponent of indiscriminate giving. Walking down

HE GAVE THE BOY TWO CENTS.

Charles street with a friend one day, the conversation turned on the work of the Charity Organization society. "Never give alms on the street," Mr. Merrell said. "It encourages pauperism," and so on, ad infinitum.

The news was just on the street. A newsboy calling the paper approached the couple. Mr. Merrell gave the boy two cents and took a paper. "Merrell," remarked his friend, "look at the corner of that paper. It says, 'Price 1 cent, doesn't it?'"

"Why—er—yes. What of it?" "Nothing, but you've just started a poor soul, out to the potter's field at a mad gallop."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Blackburn's Baggage.

On one occasion Lindsay, who succeeded Carlisle as a senator from Kentucky, was coming east with Blackburn. It was morning. The train was swaying and rocking through the Alleghany hills, precisely the hour, the motion and the place to remind a gentleman of Blue Grass genesis that he needed a stomachic. Lindsay, returning from the smoking room, was concerned to note that his colleague's countenance, usually so bland, wore a look of troubled gloom.

"What's wrong?" asked Lindsay anxiously.

"The worst thing in the world," returned Blackburn. "I've lost the better part of my baggage."

"Was it stolen, or did you leave it behind?"

"Neither; the cork came out"—Saturday Evening Post.

The Surgeon's Joke.

Dr. Robert F. Weir, the well known surgeon, some time ago hit on an experiment of curing a certain sort of facial swelling by hypodermic injections of a solution of iodine. He had thus treated a patient's face, turning that portion of it to a chocolate hue, and was explaining the process to a group of fellow doctors when one of them asked, "But, Dr. Weir, isn't the treatment very painful to the patient?"

"There's no way of telling that out," replied Weir after a glance at the sick man's face. "From now on, I shall tell you the truth. I don't know."

AT CAMP LINCOLN

Sixth Regiment Now in Tents—Program of the Week.

Springfield, Aug. 8.—The Sixth regiment has been tented at Camp Lincoln since sunrise and Lieut. Col. Edward Kittelsen, of Moline, is acting post commander and will doubtless be made colonel of the command at the election to be held in camp Thursday morning.

Gen. D. Jack Foster, former commander of the regiment, who was made general of the Third brigade, will be tendered an ovation by his old regiment when he enters the reservation at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Field and staff officers of the regiment will act as escort to General Foster from the train, and at camp the entire regiment will be under arm for his reception.

Colonel Kittelsen, who is the only candidate for advancement to command of the regiment, has been in the national guard of Illinois since July 21, 1875, and has been a member of the Sixth regiment since its reorganization twenty years ago. Maj. W. T. Channon, of Rock Island, the ranking major, will be elected to succeed Colonel Kittelsen.

Guard mounts will be held at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon this week, and assembly for the evening parades will be sounded at 6:25 p. m. The regiment is armed with the Krags, and but little range work will be attempted. Extended order formations will be the order during the entire week.

Wives and daughters of several officers are in camp and a military ball for Thursday evening is being planned. The Sterling band of thirty pieces, which accompanies the regiment, will play a concert Wednesday evening at the executive mansion.

Sunday's religious services at the camp will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Chaplain Ferris, pastor of the Methodist church at Altoona, officiating.

Both men are experts with rifles, and at 100 yard range the score was a tie. The president defeated the ambassador at the 200 yard range by seven points, but at the 400 yard range the ambassador turned the tables on the president, defeating him by nine points.

MILLIONS BEING SPENT.

Remarkable Development of Southern Illinois Coal Fields.

Ten million dollars expended on the development of the coal industry of southern Illinois during the past fifteen months and a like sum to be expended during the next fifteen months is the estimate given out by a correspondent to one of the metropolitan dailies of recent date, the estimate being based upon the statement of a well known operator. Nowhere in the United States is any more activity along industrial lines shown. Northern and eastern capital is flowing into Egypt and resident capital is being utilized by the hundreds of thousands. The correspondent referred to points that in a comparatively small area thirty new shafts have been sunk within the last five months, a majority of which will be ready to ship coal during the present year. He continues: "The industry has taken on an impetus that has far exceeded any previous period in its history. Undeveloped coal land that possibly does not have an underlying strata has increased enormously in value and the scramble has attracted capitalists everywhere. Nor is this impetus confined to any one vicinity, but is as wide as the coal belt itself."

Lands which three or four years ago were worth but $5 to $10 per acre, perhaps miles from a railroad, or valueless for agricultural purposes, have been sold under acute competition from $10 to $150 per acre. Men who but a few years ago found it hard to subsist and support dependent ones on eight acres of land have become well-to-do citizens and in several sections the easy going humdrum life of the rural farmer has been changed to that of active, energetic endeavor to reap part of the benefits accruing to the ambitious.

The simple purpose of undeveloped coal lands is but a part of the great change coming over the section. Villages are springing up where but yesterday the husbandman plowed his corn. Cities are rapidly increasing in population. Every railroad that ramifies the section has been forced to increase her carrying capacity, extend her trackage, secure a large added list of employees and meet rapidly changing conditions. The truck farmer and fruit grower has found a new market for his product—a home market and the social and community life of the people is rapidly changing."

The coal boom in southern Illinois is not paper talk. It is a fact and it is doing much to make this region known throughout the country.—Bunker Hill News.

FEMALE RIOTER ARRESTED.

Miss Bessie Armstrong Taken in Charge by Officers at Danville, Ill.

Danville, Aug. 8.—Miss Bessie Armstrong was arrested as a participant in the riot of July 25. She is accused of being the woman who undertook to incite the mob into killing Sheriff Whitlock.

It was just after Sheriff Whitlock had fired his celebrated shot along the groove in the steel rail which the rioters were using as a battering ram, thereby wounding a number of the mob engaged in battering down the front door of the jail, when a woman's shrill voice was heard shouting:

"Kill the sheriff! Somebody shoot that Whitlock!"

Those who heard the cries turned and saw a medium-sized woman with blonde hair standing in a wagon and waving her hands as she again shouted her murderous advice.

DECLARES SHE IS INNOCENT.

Miss Armstrong when placed in jail pending her hearing Monday before Justice Grant, denied being in the mob at the jail and said, "They have arrested an innocent woman."

Several persons, including Justice and Deputy Coroner Hall, say she is the woman who was seen in the mob and the sheriff has evidence that she uttered the words quoted.

The matter was taken before the grand jury today, which adjourned till Monday without reporting any further true bills.

Sheriff Whitlock today received a letter from John Clark of Bishop, Cal., who enclosed a postal order for $10 as a testimonial of his appreciation of the officer's fidelity to duty. This is the first money received by Sheriff Whitlock.

SHERIFF APPRECIATES THE GIFT.

"That letter looks mighty good to me. Believe I'll frame it," he said upon opening it.

Sheriff Whitlock also received a long letter from Governor Yates commending his actions and instructing him to forward a detailed report of circumstances surrounding the lynching and attack on the jail and measures which were taken to defend the jail, together with his opinion concerning what might have been done to prevent the lynching.

"While I was only doing what I considered my duty under the law and my oath of office in defending the jail and my prisoners from the mob I feel very grateful to the governor for his kind words," said the sheriff.

PLEASED WITH THE LETTER.

"The knowledge that I am upheld by the governor and all law-abiding citizens in my measure mitigates the sorrow I feel in having indicted injury upon fellow citizens while fulfilling my duties as sheriff of this county. The only recommendation I can make regarding the prevention of further lynchings is to urge a strict and impartial enforcement of all municipal and state laws."

BOY CURED OF COLIC AFTER PHYSICIAN'S TREATMENT HAD FAILED.

My boy when four years old was taken with colic and cramps in his stomach. I sent for the doctor and he injected morphine, but the child kept getting worse. I then gave him half a teaspoonful of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and in half an hour he was sleeping and soon recovered.—J. L. Williams, Shell Lake, Wis.

TO PREVENT CAR FAMINE.

Strenuous efforts are being made by all the roads to prevent a car "famine," which now threatens to set in much earlier and be much more severe than in any previous year. The Milwaukee & St. Paul road has sent out a request to all shippers and consignees of freight along its lines for their co-operation in reducing the inconvenience to a minimum. It has been pointed out to them that they can contribute largely to the expeditious handling of the immense volume of traffic which will have to be moved by the prompt loading and unloading of cars after receipt of notice that they have been placed at their disposal. Officials say that if their request is only complied with it will help matters immensely. The shortage of equipment and the congestion of freight throughout the busy months in past years have been caused largely by the abuse of their privileges by shippers and consignees. Cars placed at the disposal of shippers have frequently been allowed to lie for days before being loaded and a favorite practice of consignees has been to use the cars in which their freight is taken to them as warehouses for storage. Any demurrage charges that the roads have exacted have not been sufficiently high to break up the practice. They have been considerably less than what the cost of warehousing the goods would have been, but if the practice is persisted in the roads will have to unload the cars themselves and warehouse their contents at the expense of the owners of the goods. Officials of the roads generally have reached the conclusion that a change in the old practice is imperative and must be brought about at any cost. The per diem system of accounting for cars sent to foreign lines, which was put into effect a little over a year ago, afforded considerable relief, but not all that is required and the action then taken must be supplemented by that which is now intended before the largest use can be had from the available equipment.

DEFEATED NEW BERLIN.

The Jacksonville Juniors went over to New Berlin Saturday morning and crossed bats with the junior ball team of that place in the afternoon, drubbing them to the tune of 16 to 6 in a game which was easy work for the Jacksonville boys. The New Berlin boys need more practice, as their errors were most costly ones, coming at a time when every fumble meant a run for the other team.

The home team believe they were entitled to some decisions which they did not get, but what they did to the locals was a plenty and they threw in the res.

The catch made by Alexander in the sixth inning was the feature of the game. The score:
